

2009-025 HVIDHOVEDET HAVØRN – HALIAEETUS LEUCOCEPHALUS – BALD EAGLE -

Eagle almost gets a swan – the poor Eagle -

These photos were taken recently by Tom Carver, who lives on Lakelse Lake just outside of Terrace, B.C. , Canada.

He owns The Water Lily Bay Resort. He also feeds the swans on the lake all the time!

Eagles are very common in this area too. These are amazing photos!

Swan and Eagle pictures.

What a beautiful bird, so graceful and majestic.

You can see the feathers flying here from the swan.

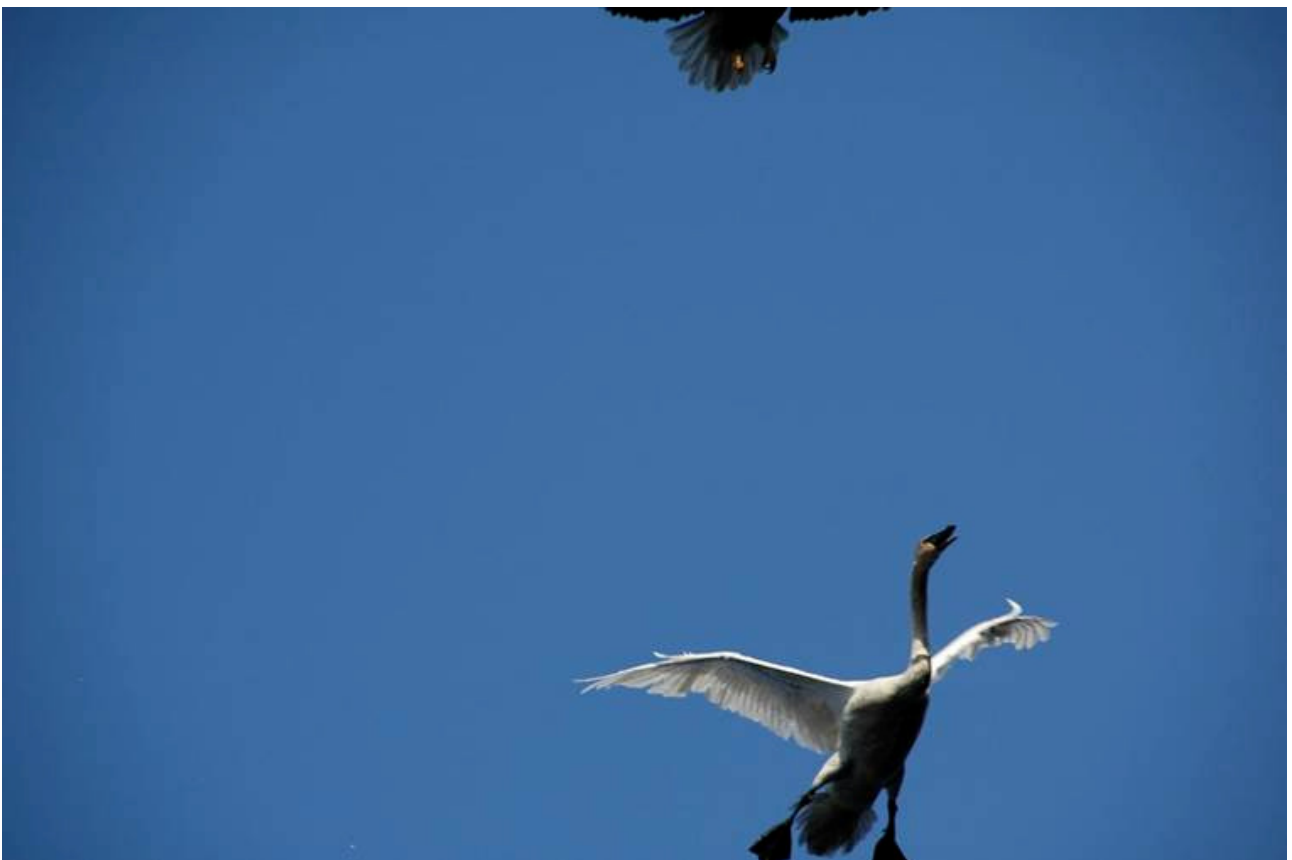

This one is so amazing to see the actual eagle wing span beside the swan.

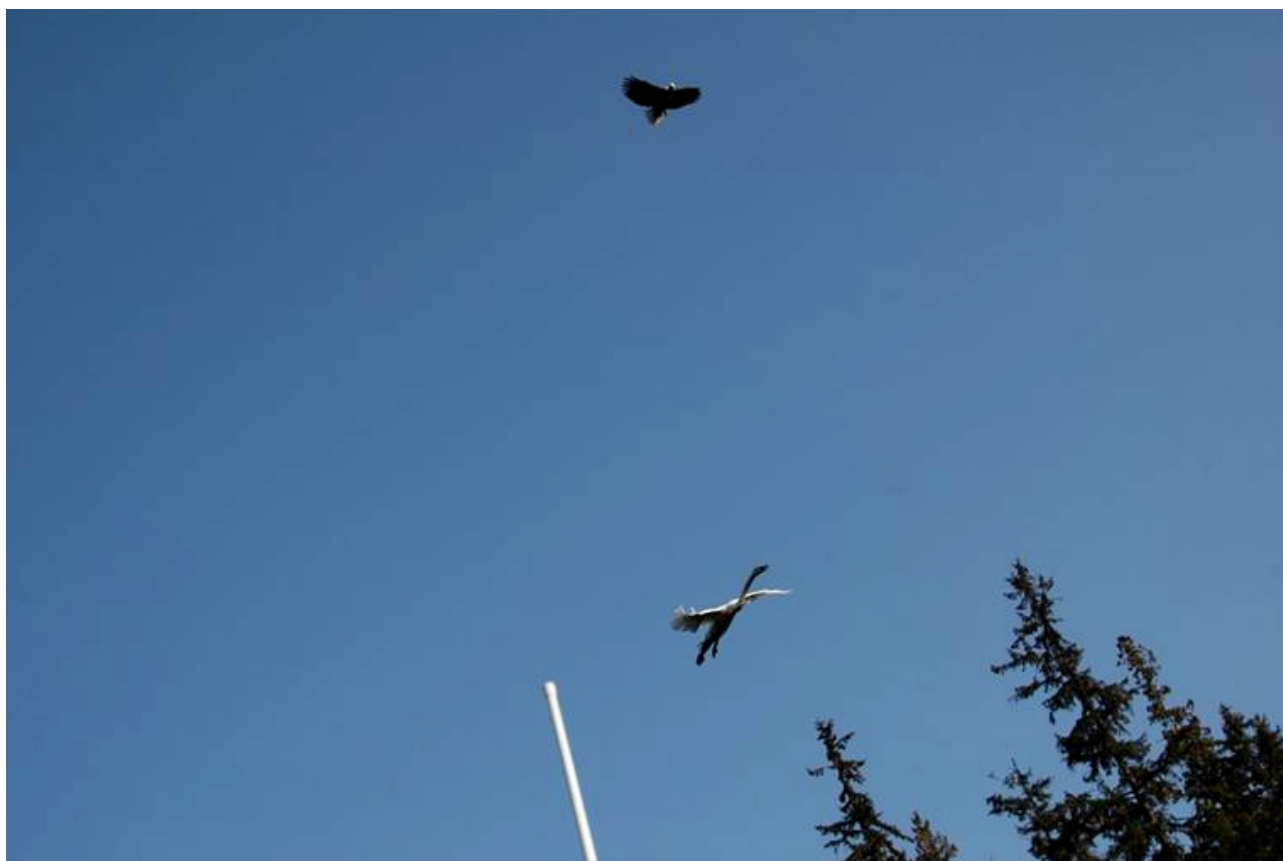

The poor swan must be scared to death ... It is attempting to actually escape death in the air

The eagle is losing his grip on the swan in this picture.

Now the eagle has just lost his grip on the swan completely.

At this point the swan starts falling straight down.

The swan falls into the water below, swims away and the eagle just looks on at his 'lost' prey. I am amazed at these pictures because I have NEVER seen an eagle attack or tackle something so big in mid-air before